

SUMMARY

- Understanding the customer is extremely important for any Agile team
- There is some overlap between "customer" and "user" concepts, but in a lot of cases we can use them interchangeably.
- Customer research is done in phases: segmentation, identifying target customers, creating personas, defining customer journeys and experimenting