

SUMMARY

- Depending on nature of product the approach would vary greatly
- Prototypes represent product image (in order to get customer feedback), but don't bring value to the end customer
- MVP (minimum viable product) allows to see if customers are willing to pay money for the product and if they love using it