SUMMARY

- Involving customer in the process allows to focus on delivering great results rather than chasing deadlines

- Social media, feedback forms and beta testing allow to get regular users involved

- Pretend your end user is in the same room when you make decisions about product. Would they be happy about the product?