SUMMARY

- Agile teams tend to be self-organizing, so the role of team manager becomes redundant

- In Agile organizations leadership focuses on building alignment across teams and driving Agile mindsets

- Agile leaders support people's growth and internal capability building for the organization